

FIRST LOOK: HR54 - DirecTV's 4k Genie

Disclaimer:

The content contained within this first look is not warranted or endorsed by DIRECTV. Features presented here may or may not be final release features, and some features may never make it to production. This first look is just that. Please keep in mind that design, software, look, and features are always subject to change.

- What is the HR54?

The HR54 is DIRECTV's first and newest 4k Genie. This product builds upon the HR44 model allowing multiple clients to have the ability to connect to the Genie, watch and record independent shows. The HR54 adds the ability for 4K pass through and linear 4K with a future software update. Upon launch of linear 4K additional LNB hardware may be required to receive reverse band frequencies in support of 4K. The HR44 and the HR54 are virtually identical in many ways with a few hardware changes

- HR54 Front Panel

The first noticeable difference between the HR44 and the HR54 is the front panel buttons have been removed for a single power on / off button. Press the DIRECTV logo to power the unit on and off.

- HR54 SIDE VIEW

The access card is now on the right side of the unit along with the red button for rebooting the unit. This is similar to other models.

- HR54 REAR VIEW

- SWM-5 Tuner (5 Total Tuners)
- Integrated Power Inserter
- 10 Pin DIN A/V Out Connector
- Powered eSATA Port
- HDMI With 4K Support

The DIN output allows for composite and component outputs via optional DIN cable. This unit has no built in modem or telephone connection. IPPV callbacks are made via the Internet and Internet connectivity will be required to order pay per view. The caller ID function is no longer supported. Internal hardware is virtually identical to the HR44 and no increased speed or hard drive storage space.

We hope to have more information on this exciting new receiver shortly! We also hope to have reports from DIRECTV's Revolution Event in July from Las Vegas, Nevada. SatelliteGuys would like to say thank you to our friends from DIRECTV for making this SatelliteGuys 4K HR54 Genie Receiver FIRST LOOK possible.

Thanks for being SatelliteGuys! We are proud to be your true Satellite Information Source!
